SOURCES (CHECKED 2026-11-27)

The official SRACQ home page, opened 27 November 2026, says the admission form for the second tour of the Winter 2027 session is available, and that the deadline to submit a request for that second tour is 1 December. It says the admission form for Fall 2027 will be available on 22 January at 9:00. The same page says regular teaching covers more than 120 programs leading to a Diplôme d'études collégiales (DEC). It also defines a temporary resident as a candidate who already has authorisation to be in Canada for a limited period (a work permit, a study permit, a visitor record, or an asylum claimant awaiting a decision), including non-Canadian students currently in Secondary V in Quebec, and an international student as a student who needs a study permit and is not present in Canada with an immigration document. Those are SRACQ's definitions for its admission forms, not immigration advice. https://www.sracq.qc.ca/ (checked 2026-11-27)

SRACQ's official temporary-resident procedure page says temporary residents, including non-Canadian students in Secondary V in Quebec, must use the regular-teaching admission form, while an international candidate must use the international form. It says each candidate makes only one admission request, and that some CEGEPs have pre-steps or may require tuition payment before issuing an admission letter. For temporary residents (study permit, work permit, visitor record, non-Canadian Secondary V student in Quebec, or asylum claimant awaiting a decision), fall deadlines listed are 1 March (first tour) and 1 May (second tour); the third and fourth fall tours are described as unavailable because study-authorisation timelines are too long. The page notes that although the second tour is open to temporary residents, immigration-document timelines may affect admission or the start of term. It also says being admitted to a CEGEP does not guarantee that you will receive immigration documents in time, and that issuance of those documents rests solely with immigration authorities and is independent of SRACQ and its member CEGEPs. That is an official admissions statement, not advice on a permit or visa. Confirm winter temporary-resident dates on the same official page, because the winter table did not fully appear in the text we could copy. https://www.sracq.qc.ca/admission/procedure-pour-faire-demande-rt.aspx (checked 2026-11-27)

The official SRASL home page, opened 27 November 2026, lists Winter 2027 admission tours as 10 September to 1 November (first tour) and 10 November to 6 December (second tour), and says the deadline to apply for the second tour is 6 December at 23:59, with the request paid in order to be processed. It says that although international admissions are rolling, response times vary, that the tour system does not apply to international students, and that their decisions are sent by email. For Fall 2027 international requests, it lists 1 March 2027 as the deadline for all countries except France and Belgium, and 1 May 2027 for France and Belgium. The same page points to a French admission test and to an official open-house information document for each CEGEP's activités Portes ouvertes. https://www.srasl.qc.ca/ (checked 2026-11-27)
